

Age of Mind Control - Uses and Misuses of Social Sciences

A Literature review with notes

ABSTRACT

This paper has three parts introduced by a Preface which provides evidence suggesting those in American political and military leadership roles should be required to take regular mental health and drug tests. Part One suggests the primary intention of the founders of the great religions, philosophies and social sciences has always been to help people understand who we are, and promote health and happiness in and between individuals and groups. Part Two of this article explores how the great religions, and the work of social scientists has been malignly reversed by British (e.g. spies and for example Tavistock) and American (spies, and for example CIA projects like Bluebird, MK-ULTRA and Minerva) to further their hegemonic interests. Thirdly this article looks at today's use of psychology in pursuit of (Western white supremacist) hegemonic domination of earth in perpetuity. That the US mass media spin machine is using strategies perfected by Adolf Hitler (the broken-record principle and litany effect) to program American voters is validated by examples from recent history. Part three also provides a link to research on how the American Department of Defense is passing the torch from Minerva to the even more insidious Stargate AI-driven high-tech methods of surveillance and mind-control and explores how the US, Europe and Israel are furthering research on mind control methodologies, e.g. psychiatric research on depression and anxieties in caged populations (of mice and men, e.g. think Palestine, torture and brain washing). The new Dark Ages accelerated hugely with mind control programs in the 1950s, media debauchery and (CIA assisted) Heroin (remember Air America) in the 1970s, accelerated even more quickly with the (CIA assisted) cocaine epidemic in the 1980s (remember Gary Webb), and (CIA assisted) return of the opioid epidemic in the 1990s, all contributing to the tidal wave of psychosis currently ruling the tattered remains of western "civilization." There is no question we are being controlled; the questions are who controls(?), can the debauched ruling class of the west wake from their drug-saturated somnambulism and echo-like media trance in time and depending on the answer to that question, how much of world civilization is the mentally ill ruling class of western civilization planning to take down with them in their devolutionary death spiral? The alternative, simply growing up and learning to play nicely in a global context is posited as a viable path to maintaining what shreds of dignity the West may yet retain.

Author's Note I

In the late 1960s/early 1970s my parents devoted considerable time and energy to starting a Department of Religious studies at the university where my father, Professor Emeritus James A. Brundage was teaching, the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.¹

At first it seemed like a nearly impossible task because state universities receive federal funding and federal law prohibited teaching religion (at that time).² Nevertheless, my father, a specialist in the history of law argued that each of the major religions founded legal systems which could be objectively compared and contrasted in an effort to promote greater understanding within and between religions as well as between religions and secular philosophies.

His personal motivation appeared straightforward. On one hand he was a devout Catholic, and on the other hand he had a genuine admiration for Salahuddin, the “Gentleman Warrior” of Islam during the Crusades that saved Crusader (later to become King) Richard’s (Coer de Lyon, the Lion-Hearted) life more than once.³

As a highly curious and precocious boy I sat in on many or most of his discussions with other historians at our house and during the years we traveled in Europe; with those discussions pertaining to Medieval European history, and eavesdropped via various methods when disinvented, consequently hearing many quite shocking stories leading up to and after the fall of Rome to the glorious Renaissance.

During my many years of university study I was more interested in social sciences and later medical sciences (principally neurophysiology) (than history) primarily motivated by a desire to find out why so many humans are such aggressive creatures that seem to be nearly endlessly embroiled in conflicts and wars and was rather disappointed to find the

² A surprising number of US states now teach religion-based creationism in schools.

<https://worldpopulationreview.com/state-rankings/evolution-teaching-states>

Incidentally, I consider the major religions to be the first great social sciences that should still be of enormous utility, were the US Federal government and other capitalist oriented entities not so heavily invested in corrupting and discrediting them individually and collectively as a perceived precursor to the US launching ever more terrible wars.⁴ Russia would not have won WWII had not Stalin legalized and even encouraged religion during that period. His criminalizing religions again after the war was, in this writer's opinion, a strategic blunder of immeasurable proportion.

Preface

What a beautiful world it could be...

...if the leaders of all nations and religions worked together for the common good of all humanity in harmony with the environment. The ultrawealthy need not worry. That isn't about to happen any time soon.

Endless replay of the Jurassic Age

Whereas China and Russia are opting for other paths, the old imperial powers including the UK, USA, France, and Germany are still up to their old colonial habits.

To support endless genocides, the eradication of all law and morality is required.

That wasn't really necessary. The days of the Euro-American colonial empires were finished some years ago anyways, and it's ridiculous to think otherwise.

This is where the Euro-American leaderships have really fallen down the rabbit hole.

"In his book "When Nations Die," Jim Nelson Black lists three aspects of decay: social decay, cultural decay, and moral decay. Three important trends demonstrate social decay. They are "the crisis of lawlessness," the "loss of economic discipline," and "rising bureaucracy."

<https://www.leaderu.com/common/nationsdie.html>

⁴ Marijuana and morality were considered to be the real causes of the US failure to win the Vietnam War. Consequently vast quantities of cocaine were provided to the American public in an effort to induce greater aggression and the undercover war on all religions accelerated. That is hardly surprising given the army of Nazi researchers Allen Dulles inducted into the CIA after WWII. The fact that he complained he was afraid of the growing power of the Nazi faction in the CIA not long before he was fired in 1961, is no coincidence. True, he was unfairly blamed for the Bay of Pigs fiasco, but that was really Bobby Kennedy's fault (for going over his head to JFK). And who might have tweaked Bobby's great urgency? Take a guess; certainly not Allen Dulles. The lesson of the Nazi takeover of the CIA affirms the truth in the old adage: "You can lose many battles but still win the war."

There can only be two explanations in this author's opinion.

Drugs and the political and military leadership in the US and UK

So I woke up this lovely Spring morning in April 2025, went to the bathroom and what did I find in the toilet? OMG! It was the world economy! How did that get in there? Was that a sane thing to do?

Who will suffer most?

Losing 25,000 to Hunger Every Day

<https://www.un.org/en/chronicle/article/losing-25000-hunger-every-day>

That's an old statistic of course, and will keep getting worse for the foreseeable future unless dramatic action is taken to prevent it. Simply killing everyone in target nations with bombs and starvation is not only supremely evil, cruel and illegal, but also not good public relations and bad for business.

Hunger is not a nice way to die. Most Americans can afford Fentanyl which is a painless way to die, but not so for the poorest of the poor around the world.

How can the ultra-rich rationalize⁵ that? They don't need to. They have drugs.

Unbeknownst to most, alcohol is a powerful, highly addictive drug, but hardly the only one popular during the past 50 years.

The political and military leaders in Western Europe and the USA must be on some other mind-bending drugs as well. Mass murder in already poor countries is easy enough. But now?

What towering delusions could possibly make the political and military leaderships of the USA and their Euro-buddies think they can defeat Russia and China in a world glued together only by Mutually Assured Destruction?

Did some or many among the American leadership during the COVID-19 pandemic discover that some kinds of steroids can help fend off that dreaded disease⁶? If added to an existing amphetamine⁷ addition, and alcoholism⁸, paranoia, delusions of grandeur and psychosis would result. That can be the only explanation for the West's rush to cultural, economic, military, and national suicide.

Next, add that toxic mix to the narcissistic personality of some leaders.

Narcissistic personality disorder (NPD) is a mental health condition in which a person may show a pattern of behavior or inner experience that may include:

- a need for admiration from others
- a grandiose or excessive sense of self-importance
- a sense of entitlement
- a preoccupation with themselves
- a lack of empathy for others.

... and one can only hope they don't have access to a thermonuclear red button.

And what about our illustrious military officers in the American Pentagon and Northwood Headquarters in Northwood, London? Drugs too?

Indubitably.

Thier use of amphetamines for example, did not end with WWII. How many drugs did the cabinet appointees of liberal Democrat President Biden take(?), especially those individuals fueling and promoting the war industry?

“The Air Force claims amphetamine use is strictly voluntary. To substantiate this, Air Force spokespeople note that the ‘informed consent' form signed by pilots who receive Dexedrine mentions the voluntary nature of the program no fewer than seven times. However, the form also notes that the pilot can be grounded for exercising his right not to imbibe.

“‘To be grounded – taken off flight status – is very damaging to any pilot’s career,’ said Maj. Glenn MacDonald, a retired Air Force officer and editor-in-chief of MilitaryCorruption.com. ‘The USAF was coercing its pilots to possibly become drug addicts and endangering their health.’

The Pentagon spin machine will try and tap dance around that, but it is a damning fact.”

Contagious mental illness

Emotional contagion and symptom transmission are well-documented phenomena, that have been occupying the minds of mental health professionals and scholars for decades. Thus, it has long been acknowledged that one person’s psychopathology may significantly affect another’s, sometimes to the point of what may appear as full-blown symptom transmission.

The Russians and Chinese are out to get us!

Hysteria.

It almost seems like they really believe it. Frankly, it’s absurd, but... they’re selling that to the entire voting publics around the US and Western Europe, so maybe they really do believe it.

Crazy?

Maybe not.

Underneath the veneer of attempting to save the world from the infinite evils of the “evil others”⁹ in far away Russia and China, what really matters on Wall Street, DC and Langley are quarterly dividends and each of the two political parties in the US is desperate to beat the other party by giving away more and more to their base of voters.

The national economy (read: tax payers) pays the price of course as the soaring national debt proves, despite some legitimate cuts in the federal budget by the rather curious best-buddy Elon Musk. Unfortunately those cuts add up to little more than trimming the toenails of Tyrannosaurus Rex. Furthermore, permitting USAID to burn nearly all of its records makes undoing the harms caused by those promoters of culture destruction around the world virtually impossible.

“Yes! Yes! The cultural poison has been administered and the evidence all safely burned. By the way, band aids and some scraps of food from the rich man’s table are also being cut but since the patient is dying anyways, who really cares?”

Thus goes the logic from the high and mighty.

Of course, starving people do have voices, but the titanium walls of western censorship ensure not even the whimpers can be heard.

“Damn those dirty Russkies and Chinkos!” bellow the Lords of Western predatory capitalism.

⁹ The Evil Savage Other as Enemy in Modern U.S. Presidential Discourse, by Jérôme Viala-Gaudefroy.
<https://journals.openedition.org/angles/498>

True, like Africa, Latin American and the rest of Asia, Russia and China have suffered from repeated invasions from the west (at the cost of literally 10s of millions of lives), but... they're not really white afterall, and have been sufficiently smeared to be safely crushed, right?

From the perspective of Western perceptual psychology, mostly yes, however in terms of practical reality on the ground? Not even close.

Tragically that dubious logic is only a precursor to greater delusions planned by the super-geniuses of the west yet to come.

In the inevitable future war crimes trials, it is likely AI¹⁰ will be blamed, and the Hunter Biden defense – “I was on drugs and didn’t know what I was doing!” – liberally applied in a solid defense of the obviously guilty.

What’s next?

The CIA wants President Trump to hurry up and end the war against Russia so the US can blast some Chinese ships and maybe even a city to shake global confidence in China.¹¹

But Trump is dragging his feet because on one hand he’s got the world’s toughest negotiator over there in Moscow backed up by even more nuclear weapons than he has, and on the other he’s got NATO leaders with mortgages and private school tuitions to pay not to mention Vanguard¹² shareholders all ready to trash him in an instant if he doesn’t promote some massive war, post haste.

Second guessing President Putin is probably impossible. Russians have one of the world’s most mixed genetic backgrounds.

The (pre)historic milestones that founded modern Russian populations include settlement of Northern areas of Eurasia by anatomically modern humans, the eastward expansion of the Indo-European speakers, the westward expansion of the Uralic and Altai language families and centuries of admixture between them [[1],

¹² Interestingly most of the weapons corporations are actually owned by Vanguard, not Blackrock at least as of October 2024, the last time I researched it.

[2], [3], [4], [5], [6]]. The migration routes for peopling Northern and Central Eurasia and the Americas inevitably passed through this territory, followed by the waves of great human migrations together with the exchange of knowledge and technology (and likely the genes) along the Silk Road [7,8].

<https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S0888754318307419>

That diversified hardware offers many with that combination greater potential for intelligence.¹³

In regards to President Putin's "software" (learning) as a young KGB officer during the Yeltsin years, he no doubt acquired a strong sense of nationalism as a reaction-response to Yeltsin's complete subservience to the American CIA. In other words, he was hardened to protect his nation especially from Americans in a very, very powerful way.

Who can blame him? The bear over a barrel screaming: "Do me!" That just ain't right.

Besides President Putin's personality characteristics is the fact Ukraine lost the war. That was no surprise as the Europeans and Americans already knew Ukraine to be the most corrupt nation in Europe.¹⁴

The EU and even the UK knew this perfectly well and still hyped up war fever against Russia, knowing full well it's a loser's bet, but better than torpedoing the entire world economy (which means their own as well) messing with China.

The CIA however relishes a global economic depression as it will (in theory) starve more people of color to death than white people, and make the already rich, richer! A boon for unrestrained capitalism.

On the surface, alt-news writer Rachel Marsden is certainly correct:

Germany wants the UK to hold its hand while it starts WWII - The chancellor-in-waiting says he would commit to giving Kiev long-range missiles if London backs him, by Rachel Marsden

...Merz said that "if for example, the most important land connection between Russia and Crimea is destroyed, or if something happens on Crimea itself, where most of the Russian military logistics are located, then that would be an opportunity to bring this country strategically back into the picture finally." Cool,

¹³ Not all obviously, because some will inherit less desirable characteristics from that mix.

¹⁴ <https://www.theguardian.com/news/2015/feb/04/welcome-to-the-most-corrupt-nation-in-europe-ukraine>

cool. Which picture would that be, exactly? The one labeled “Catastrophic Misjudgments of the 21st Century”?

<http://www.rachelmarsden.com/columns.asp>

Marsden is right. It is madness, but it’s a calculated madness to delay the almost inevitable attack on China.

Even in the unlikely event that attack was successful, what would be the result?

Global economic depression for the next 30 years at least and possible extinction of civilization in the Northern Hemisphere as well.

Russia can take care of itself and President Putin has a cool head. That much is known. The Chinese reaction to a military attack of any kind however is completely unknown.

Without firing a shot China can crash the US economy by selling off T-bills, stopping all industry exports and liquidating other assets.

Then there’s the fact that for decades the USA used Chinese boosters to get rockets into space. Sure, sure the US has a fancy sounding “Space Command” (ambiguity intended), but nobody has any idea what China has up there.¹⁵

If, for a few pennies a small handful of Chinese techies (that created DeepSeek) crashed the US$500 billion OpenAI's ChatGPT, what other technologies might they have up their sleeves? The so-called US Department of Defense (DoD) is playing Russian Roulette with a self-created adversary that wasn’t an adversary to begin with. And, with each provocation against China, it gets stronger while US citizens pay the tariffs.

Boiling angry American economists are furious about the success of the Chinese led Belt and Road Initiative (BRI), but never even conceived of the idea that the Chinese leadership would be happy to cooperate in areas of mutual benefit along the Silk Roads, which could be just about anywhere. (It is curious American economists only think outside the box in malign ways, but never in nice ways. Why is that? Think about it.)

That’s the rub. Those locked into a permanent adversarial perceptual framework can’t even image working cooperatively.

It's dog eat dog. The big fish eat the small fish. That's the way it is and always has been! Get over it!¹⁶

It's not in their playbook, and that is another clear sign of mental illness.

The first sentence of the Abstract of a study titled "Identification of Oppositional Defiant Disorder in Young Adult College Students" by Johnstone et. al states:

"Long-considered a disorder restricted to children and adolescents, more research is needed to understand how oppositional defiant disorder (ODD) affects adults."

The last paragraph of the conclusion reports:

"Overall, in order to identify the potential scope of the population at risk and in need of services, evidence of the rate of ODD, the level of associated impairment, and the level of service engagement related to ODD symptomatology in the adult population is needed. Absent this evidence, clinicians, intervention researchers, and public policy-makers are left to speculate—which greatly limits the degree to which outreach and treatment initiatives can be developed or implemented.

https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Oliver-Johnston-5/publication/327254692_Identification_of_Oppositional_Defiant_Disorder_in_Young_Adult_College_Students

These extreme mental illnesses¹⁷ go back to before the foundation of the United States, and accelerated even more at the turn of the last Century in the US.

And so, to assist in “defending” against psychosis-induced illusory enemies virtually all social sciences have been hijacked by the defense industries of the world’s most powerful nations and weaponized to “further their national interests first and foremost.”¹⁸ Consequently, one may as well forget about what a beautiful world it could be, for now.

¹⁶ Those assertions are so untrue. For example, after our human ancestors came down from the trees, they were only able to survive by cooperation within the tribe. The population of those ancestors was so small it is highly unlikely they competed against each other at all, (except perhaps for occasional inter-tribal mating). In any case, their collective survival demanded cooperation, much as it does now in the earth’s deteriorating ecology. Only China is fighting hard to reverse the ravages of ecological destruction brought about by civilization and the USA is doing everything it can to prevent China from working to save the planet.

Historically this weaponization of everything is no surprise. Power has always been highly addictive and the absolute corruption that invariably follows an inescapable shadow.

In the most recent round of that primitive “game,” the British have played a lead role with the USA leap-frogging ahead to ever new extremes of debauchery and sadism. What’s astonishing is they don’t appear to see it. Time for more drugs!

As a species we have slid down from the Information Age, to the Age of Mind Control -- The Final Battlefield.

Shake in your boots boys and girls. It’s gonna be a rough ride.

And so it has come to pass, virtually all freedom is lost in the world, regardless of race, religion, and even socio-economic status (SES). Yep, even Elon Musk is feeling the pinch. Goddamn the pusher man.¹⁹

Other nations, most notably led by Russia and China have had no choice but to shake-off the hypnotic-like spells of western “magic,” (“this powder or pill will solve ALL your problems!”) find alternative approaches to problem solving, and devise ways to defuse the toxicity of fake information designed to saturate the world.

This has become necessary to promote harmony within and between their own citizens, nations, and the world.

That isn’t easy given even the English language, international as it is, has been hijacked as well, with the word “truth²⁰” as only one example, flipped over to represent only one side of a two-faced coin.

In the wake of that maelstrom of events, this writer humbly attempts to clarify matters for those who still have sufficient attention span to read an article (slightly “longish” as it may be).

PART 1 Estimating the validity and reliability of contemporary religious beliefs compared to the teachings of the founders of those religions

Transmission Chains and the accuracy of oral transmissions

The concept of “Transmission chain” of information was first developed by Frederic Bartlett in 1932. It has since become an accepted principle in social psychology asserting that information remembered is influenced by group affiliation and when passed sequentially between people is just about invariably modified at each link in that chain.

National security isn’t even on their list; proof if that is the fact that the USA’s endless militarism is the chief danger to the security of the USA, not a deterrence to (imaginary) external aggressors.

¹⁹ <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3XqyGoE2Q4Y>

²⁰ <https://truthsocial.com>

Bartlett studied just how accurate oral transmissions are likely to be, with the conclusion: Not accurate at all.

BARTLETT also compared a chain of reproductions from an Indian and English group. In both cases he found the story takes on a distinctive "group stamp or character" (p.173), but notes a stronger tendency to elaborate in the Indian group. [46]

Speaking of general trends seen across the serial reproduction experiments with a variety of texts, BARTLETT highlights that proper names and titles tend to be omitted; the concrete tends to be preserved and emphasized; many stories tend to be given a "moral"; argumentative passages "tend to be reduced to bald expression on conventional option" (ibid.); and while stories tend to gain explanatory links through rationalization, argumentative texts lose them.²¹ He further emphasizes the "radical nature of changes" in the serial reproduction chains: "Epithets are changed into opposites; incidents and events are transposed; names and numbers rarely survive intact for more than a few reproductions; opinions and conclusions are reversed—nearly every possible variation seems as if it can take place" (p.175). BARTLETT also is at pains to point out that EBBINGHAUS' approach is wholly inadequate to understand these changes. For example, material is not preserved based on its position within a text—according to EBBINGHAUS (1913 [1885]), items coming at the beginning or end of a list are remembered at a higher frequency—but rather what is deemed meaningful to the subject or group of subjects. Furthermore, "preservation is in no way a guarantee of accuracy" (BARTLETT, 1995 [1932], p.175). [47]

<https://www.qualitative-research.net/index.php/fqs/article/view/2367/3870>

In a not too surprising irony, reviews of Bartlett's work have been over-simplified and distorted as can be predicted based on Bartlett's research.

Bartlett's and subsequent related research raises questions regarding the authenticity of all ancient religious texts

Accuracy of historical records in the Hebrew and Christian Bibles

The Hebrew Bible

For millennia it was forbidden in Jewish law to write down much of the law and thus it was passed down generation to generation via oral transmission. Several rational have been presented.

“The Midrash (Exodus Rabbah 47:1) says that one reason was to maintain one portion of the Torah as a uniquely Jewish possession. The gentiles have the written Torah (ever since, under order of Ptolemy II Philadelphus, it was translated into Greek, and later into other languages); but so long as the Oral Torah remained orally transmitted, it was unavailable to them.”

There is also the idea that it is vital not only to study Torah, but to develop a personal relationship with a teacher. This is expressed in the phrase, "Service of Torah is greater than its study" (Talmud, Berachos 7b). Thus, another reason for keeping the Oral Torah oral is to make its mastery dependent on that kind of face-to-face learning.

<https://judaism.stackexchange.com/questions/7870/why-was-torah-shebeal-peh-not-allowed-to-be-written>

In other words, to keep it secret and form a personal bond between student and rabbi.

Other explanations assert the meaning of the Torah (Hebrew law) is so esoteric it cannot be written down; must be tailored to match the learning of each individual student and to prevent tying the hands of subsequent sages of each generation.

<https://nefesh.org/SimchaFeuerman/the-psychology-of-torah-shebal-peh/read>

Whatever the case of the all of the above, it is fairly safe to assume the Hebrew written texts were written long, long after the original events that inspired them, and due to the secretive nature of the Oral Transmission (Torah Shebeal Peh) Judaism is a highly malleable religion. Considering the vastitudes of transmission chain error discussed above, the original intent of the founder of Judaism (presumably Elohim²¹) may have been reversed innumerable times to fit the circumstances/needs of the original Judaic Tribes (with permission granted in the Oral Transmission).

Whatever the outcome of those debates might be it is readily apparent Judaism has been a hegemonic religion for a very long time.

The Christian Bible (AKA the “New Testament”)

Being of more modern invention, the history of the New Testament is easier to document. What has survived is a patchwork composed over many centuries.

²¹ Elohim is in a masculine plural form. In the singular tense it appears feminine (eloha).

To quote:

The earliest version to survive in the Bible is Mark's Gospel. It was probably written between AD 75 and 85, and it was used - together with other sources - as the basis for the Gospels of both Matthew and Luke, each written a few years later. The Gospel of John is later again (perhaps around AD 100) and differs from the other three in concentrating on spiritual issues more than biography. It is not until well into the 2nd century that the four Gospels are given their names (see naming the Gospels).

Establishing the canon: 2nd - 4th century AD

By the middle of the 2nd century it becomes evident that a great many different and often contradictory passages of holy scripture are circulating among the various Christian churches, each claiming to offer the truth. (There is even a Gospel according to Judas Iscariot.) Which of these shall be accepted as the official canon? This becomes a subject of urgent debate among church leaders.

By the end of the century it is widely agreed that four Gospels, the Epistles of Paul and the Acts of the Apostles are authentic. But it is not until 367 that a list is circulated by Athanasius, bishop of Alexandria, which finally establishes the content of the New Testament.

Meanwhile the texts are being ceaselessly copied and recopied on Papyrus and later on Parchment. A few fragments survive from the 2nd century, but the earliest complete New Testament (the Codex Sinaiticus, in Greek, written probably in Egypt, now in the British Library) dates from the late 4th century.

<https://historyworld.net/history/Bible-NewTestament/462>

Thus, there was considerable time for much of the New Testimony to have been influenced by historical revisionism and regardless as to the purity of transmission, the Catholic and subsequent religious organizations that followed certainly appear to have deviated considerably from the philosophy of love and tolerance taught by what remains of the purer older Biblical texts. For example:

Maddened by victory, the crusaders rushed through the streets, killing everyone in sight. They beheaded men, rapaciously raped and murdered women and children. Historian Steven Runciman wrote that the massacre at Jerusalem 'emptied Jerusalem of its Muslim and Jewish inhabitants.' (A History of the Crusades: The First Crusade. Vol.1, p. 287) Thomas Asbridge painted the crusaders in the same dark colour: he referred to them as 'blood-hungry, ravening packs who overran the Holy City.' (The Crusades: The Authoritative History of The War For The Holy Land, p. 101) He further writes that 'the Frankish massacre was not simply a feral outburst of bottled rage; it was a prolonged callous campaign of killing that lasted at least two days and it left the city awash with blood and littered with corpses.' (p. 102)

<http://www.crusadesandcrusaders.com/2014/03/18/siege-jerusalem-1099-savage-massacre-typical-post-siege-violence/>

That slaughter was the primary goal of the First Crusade. The slaughter, etc. started July 15, 1099 CE.

The Sack of Constantinople during the Fourth Crusade in 1204 was no different.

Thus history proves "transmission errors" and reversals are quite common indeed. There is nothing in any way relating to "love thy neighbor as thyself," in the above and many other similar histories.

The above kinds of histories also partly explain why Marx and Engels preferred to do without religion entirely.

<https://www.marxists.org/archive/marx/works/subject/religion/index.htm>

The counter-argument I heard innumerable times as a child is: "Don't throw the baby out with the bathwater," and "The exceptions prove the rule."

In other words, for most people, at most times, in most places in history the religions have done vastly more good than harm. The "problems" arise when political opportunists hijack those religions (and secular philosophies) to suit greedy agendas.

My old Arabic teacher grew up in Palestine before the Nakba. He told me back then if a person needed sugar, they just went next door and asked their neighbor, regardless as to whether the neighbor was Muslim, Christian or Jewish.

Fact or fiction? Wahhabism was created by British Spies

<https://sufi.it/islam/the-beginning-and-spreading-of-wahhabism/>

Confessions of a British Spy and British Enmity Against Islam

Must read for every Muslim! This book Confessions by a British spy, translated from the book (Muzakkarat-ul Mister Hempher) which was published in Cairo by (Dâr-ul-kitâb-is-sufi), consists of the memoirs of Hempher, one of the thousands of spies, men or women, sent to Islamic countries by Ministry of the British Colonies, to demolish send Islamic religion. In this confession, the spy, Hempher, disclosed the lies and slanders fabricated by the Ministry; how he had deceived Muhammad bin Abdulwahhab, the founder of Wahhâbism; how he had strived to divide Muslims into groups and to corrupt their religion.

<https://www.hakikatkitabevi.net/book.php?bookCode=018>

This writer is not a fan of Wahhabism; for where it has gone, too often genuine terrorism has followed.

Is it possible the Sauds cooked it up themselves?

That is possible. It doesn't really matter either.

I once knew a Palestinian Imam with an incredible memory of Quran versus and was gentle and had kind heart. Then, he disappeared. When he returned I found out he spent six months in Saudi Arabia in some learning program. He was no longer gentle and kind. He had turned into a bitter robot that preached a "divided highway" form of Islam.

Slept through Fajr (Dawn) prayer once? You are Kaffir! Away to hell with you!

People stopped going to that small Masjid after that.

And then there are newspaper and journal articles.

And hundreds of others.

Fifteen of the 19, 9/11 terrorists were from Saudi Arabia. Two were from the United Arab Emirates, one was from Lebanon, and one was from Egypt.

Bilateral relations between Saudi Arabia and the United States began in 1933 when full diplomatic relations were established.

Mind control?

That, I do not doubt and does matter.

It is my impression the Holy Prophet Mohammad was a modernist in his time.

Muhammad's first marriage was to Khadija bint Khuwaylid in 595, when he was 25 and she was either 28 or 41. She was an excellent businesswoman and provided the environment and education the Prophet Mohammad needed to become the Holy Prophet, businessman and diplomat he became.

She was his only wife until her death in 619 (the Year of Sorrow) ended their 24-year-long marriage.

As noted elsewhere in this article, the Prophet Mohammad was quite liberal compared to the prophets of other religions. For example, parts of Roman law were incorporated into Islamic law, e.g. marital property laws, and mandatory collection of Zakat charity money for the poor. In addition he was the only Prophet that encouraged and promised rewards to those who freed slaves. Likewise, Islam is the only major religion that permits followers to marry outside the religion at least with Jews and Christians. The Holy Prophet Mohammad also made compromises to keep the peace, e.g. permitting young converts to Islam to have to return to their families when those families objected to those conversions, at least until that youngster was old enough to leave. There are many, many other examples to reinforce the belief the Holy Prophet Mohammad was not a sour, strict, narrow-minded traditionalist robot as so many people seem to believe. Many Hadith report he was nearly always smiling and came across as a happy, joy-filled man. He never claimed to be the son of God, or anything like that. He was only a man, performed no miracles, and yet started a wave of moral reform in Arabia that spread around the world. Most importantly, he was a splendid diplomat and always worked to promote diplomacy, using violence in defense only as a last resort.

Those are historical facts that cannot be argued. What his followers did after he passed away however, is another collection of stories.

As for Wahhabism? I do not believe they are fostering personality types that are anything like the Holy Prophet Mohammad.

So where did all that negative energy directed against Islam come from?

Disinformation from jealous and greedy competitor religions, and some, but not that many significant errors of the Holy Prophet's followers.

From the time westerners found petroleum to be the most valuable source of energy, the wars against Islam and Muslims has grown increasingly cruel and deadly. Some 75% of the world's petroleum is in Muslim countries.

Natural Resources of Muslim Majority Countries

Muslim countries have a wide variety of natural resource like Oil and Gas as well as Agricultural Products. Of course, Oil is one of the most important and expensive natural source.

Muslim World owns about 75% of the total global oil reserves of the world.

<https://munsifdaily.com/natural-resources-of-muslim-majority-countries>

The original intentions of religions (and social sciences) were to help people

The Ten Commandments which all Jewish, Christian, and Muslim people are obligated to follow, first mandates monotheism, and then forbids killing (stealing, lying, adultery, etc.).

Were the followers of those religions to actually follow those mandates, there would be no “US Department of Defense,” no arms race, no nuclear weapons, etc., etc. etc.

Arguably one of the oldest religions “Hinduism” is not really one religion at all, but rather a huge collection of different religions, some of which at least were and others at least in some places still are, monotheistic.

The word “Hindu” was first used by the Greeks and the Persians for the people who reside beyond the Indus/Sindhu River.²² The term Hindu as a general label for most Indian religions in English, was of course, the English.

In the vast collection of Indian religious philosophies we can find “satyagraha” used by Mahatma Gandhi which means “truth force” and use of non-violence to achieve goals, as well as the somewhat fatalistic philosophy of the Bhagavad Gita which is mostly a very long dialogue between the Pandava Prince Arjuna and his charioteer guide Krishna, “an avatar of Vishnu” on the relative merits and demerits of war and in the end concluding that war is better. That in turn resulted in a long tragic war between two groups of cousins called the Kurukshetra War.

What we have is two of the oldest religions, Hinduism and Judaism providing divine encouragement for war in various contexts. The much later religion of Christianity (in its original pre-Emperor Constantine form) preached “turn the other cheek,” and Islamic law only permits the use of force in self-defence and in defence of those who are oppressed and unable to defend themselves.²³

The corruption of all religions and mind-control

Nevertheless, later derivations of Christianity and Islam also engaged in offensive warfare, teaching various lessons: Never underestimate the human ability to rationalize anything,

²² <https://pluralism.org/what-does-%E2%80%99Chindu%E2%80%9D-mean>

²³ The Use of Force under Islamic Law - Oxford Academic power corrupts, and relying on faith alone without sound reasoning to back it up is a really terrible idea.

Even worse, we find the British and American Intelligence services having made very deep study of the major religions and poisoning each with corrupt teachings, fake and distorted histories and literally buying their leadership, most often with high-tech surveillance software and heavy weaponry to protect them from their own people.

Just as bad, Western corporate controlled newspapers and broadcast “news” daily spews forth legions of lies primarily directed at Muslims. The fact is, anyone who kills innocents and/or attacks religious minorities is not Muslim, yet corporate news around the world reports such heinous events as if those murderers were Muslims.

And so, another, and one of the most insidious forms of “mind-control” reveals itself.

Who are the greatest masters of these dark arts? Probably those who have the most experience.

The Israelites & The Battle of Jericho

According to the Bible, at around 1,400 BCE, Jericho was the first city attacked by the Israelites after they crossed the Jordan River and entered Canaan. The Wall of Jericho was destroyed when the Israelites walked around it for seven days carrying the Ark of the Covenant. On the seventh day, Joshua commanded his people to blow their trumpets made of rams' horns and shout at the walls until they finally fell down. Excavations of the site reveal a network of collapsed walls that date to around the late 17th century or early 16th century BCE. The most likely cause of the collapse was an earthquake. Descriptions of later earthquake destruction (1267 CE & 1927 CE) match the description of the collapsed walls in the Bible. In each description, the cliffs above the Jordan River fell into the river and dammed it up. It also reveals that Jericho was unoccupied from the late 15th century to around the 10th century BCE. Non-Biblical Scholars now believe that the Bible story is an allegory. The story was written sometime after 722 BCE, long after the date of the event, and was used to claim the territory for the Kingdom Of Israel. Biblical Scholars point to the destruction of the walls 175 years earlier as proof that the story in the Bible is true. They state that the only thing amiss is the dating in the Bible and that the earthquake was God rewarding the Israelites for following his commands. According to the Bible, Jericho remained abandoned until Hiel the Bethelite established himself there in the 9th century BCE.

<https://www.worldhistory.org/article/951/early-jericho/>

According to the Hebrew Bible, God ordered the Jewish people to destroy Jericho for the following reasons:

"You shall not give any of your offspring to offer them to Molech, nor shall you profane the name of your God; I am the LORD. ²²You shall not lie with a male as one lies with a female; it is an abomination. ²³Also you shall not have intercourse with any animal to be defiled with it, nor shall any woman stand before an animal to mate with it; it is a perversion. ²⁴Do not defile yourselves by any of these things; for by all these the nations which I am casting out before you have become defiled. ²⁵For the land has become defiled, therefore I have brought its punishment upon it, so the land has spewed out its inhabitants."

Leviticus 18:21-25

Israel Captures Jericho

Get ready to shout! The Lord will let you capture this town. 17 But you must destroy it and everything in it, to show that it now belongs to the Lord.[b] The woman Rahab helped the spies we sent,[c] so protect her and the others who are inside her house. But kill everyone else in the town. 18-19 The silver and gold and everything made of bronze and iron belong to the Lord and must be put in his treasury. Be careful to follow these instructions, because if you see something you want and take it, the Lord will destroy Israel. And it will be all your fault.

Joshua 6:16 (Bold text added by this author.)

Yahweh ordered his followers to drive out or massacre entire tribes many times in history according to the Hebrew Bible.

If human sacrifice, profaning God, homosexuality and bestiality are the greatest sins, one might think the followers of Yahweh should be at war against the USA (at least the democratic party), rather than working as a US proxy in a war against Palestine.

The logic here is oddly reversed.

"The Wall of Jericho is one of the greatest archaeological finds in the city and is considered to be the oldest city wall in the world as it was built around 8000 BCE.

“Throughout its history, Jericho has been occupied and settled by several different groups of people and it is even talked about in the Bible.

“In recent history, control of Jericho has been passed back and forth between Israel and Palestine as the Israeli-Palestinian conflict rages on. However, Jericho has been occupied by Israeli forces since 1967, along with the rest of the West Bank.”

1213 BCE Israel

The earliest mention of the word "Israel" comes from a stele (an inscription carved on stone) found in Thebes (modern day Luxor) and erected by the ancient Egyptian pharaoh Merneptah, who reigned from around 1213 B.C. to 1203 B.C. The inscription mentions a military campaign in the Levant during which Merneptah supposedly "laid waste" to "Israel" among other kingdoms and cities in the region.

Clearly the US and Israel should lose their votes in the UN General Assembly and Security council. Naturally the US would retaliate. Ergo, the UN needs to restructure itself, and move OUT OF NEW YORK.

This writer has several times in the past strongly advised the UN be restructured and move to another country.

In this writer's opinion, Niger, as one of the world's most impoverished nations (due to French colonialism until 2024), would be an ideal location.

Ideally, the CIA, Israel so-called intelligence services, and NATO should disband and their leaderships held for trial in the Hague.

Furthermore, funding for the ICC and ICJ desperately needs to be radically increased to speed up trials and better promote their decisions.

Those trials should be as public as possible as a lesson to all: Don't violate international law!

The voting publics in the USA and Europe have no idea what is really going on.

Eradicating the First Amendment has blinded American voters and consequently they are not supporting President Trump's peace initiatives with Russia.

Uphold Constitutional law: drop the censorship. Then the peace deal will go smoothly.

'Nothing Short of Genocide': Israel Kills 200 Children

"This is a war on children," said one child advocate working to end the carnage and suffering in Gaza.

The above article continues:

Nearly 200 children are among those killed by Israel in Gaza over the last three days since the powerful U.S. ally broke a cease-fire agreement and began a massive bombing campaign with the blessing of the Trump administration.

According to figures released Thursday by the Gaza Health Ministry, 504 people—mostly innocent men, women, and children—have been killed since Israel broke the cease-fire agreement on Tuesday, with more than 900 wounded in the attacks.

Al-Jazeera reports Thursday that at least 110 people were killed since dawn on Thursday. It was not clear if any of those fatalities were included in the ministry's latest figures.

In the widespread bombing unleashed Tuesday, over 400 people were killed, more than 180 of whom were children. The bombings and military operations continued on Wednesday and into Thursday.

"I do not spend too much time concerned with who the Israeli military says they targeted in attacks like this," Miranda Cleland, an advocacy officer with Defense for Children International Palestine (DCIP), said in remarks to Middle East Eye following the first wave of attacks. "Instead, look at the evidence: 183 dead children, comprising almost half of yesterday's death toll, tells me that this is a war on children."

"Eighteen thousand dead children since October 7, 2023 tells me this is a war on children, regardless of what the Israeli military says." (Article continues.)

Here this writer must interject: Please recall inaccuracies built into communication transmission chains. The lag times between the founder(s) of a religion, the writing down of their beliefs, and the current practice of a religion are highly correlated with deviations from what appears to have been the initial intent of the founders of those religions. Thus “problems” (like genocides) are not necessarily inherent in the original versions of the religions themselves, but rather the opportunistic ambitions of much later followers who alter the original teachings of the founders of those religions to promote their own ambitions.²⁴

And Joshua said, Hereby ye shall know that the living God is among you, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Jebusites.

JOSHUA 3:10

That's a lot of tribes to kill off and/or enslave and rob.

There is nothing like that in (the original form of) Buddhism (500 BCE), (the original form of) Christianity²⁵ (1st Century) or (the original form of) Islam (7th Century).²⁶ ²⁷ That is unique.

In regards to the "second Coming" of Jesus and End of Days we find (among many other verses):

For behold, the day is coming, burning like a furnace; and all the arrogant and every evildoer will be chaff; and the day that is coming will set them ablaze,' says the Lord of armies, 'so that it will leave them neither root nor branches.

<https://www.bibleref.com/Malachi/4/Malachi-4-1.html>

Is it just me, or is "driving out" the "Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Jebusites," about as arrogant as arrogant can be, and undeniable negation of the Commandments: "Thou shall not kill," and "Thou shall not covet thy neighbor's goods"?

Those assertions are not internally consistent.

²⁴ <https://yalebooks.yale.edu/2019/03/19/how-old-is-the-hebrew-bible/>

<http://web.mit.edu/aorlando/www/SaintJohnCHI/Church%20History%20Readings/Boniface%20VIII%20-%20Unam%20Sanctam.pdf>

²⁷ Incidentally, the Quran was written down within 20 years following the death of the Prophet Mohammad. That is a record for ancient religions. The Hadith is another story all together.

Dates, geography, and population sizes drawn from the Hebrew Bible are not consistent with what scant evidence exists outside of that text.

Another often-ignored aspect of ancient Judaism is that it was originally a Goddess religion; however the Goddesses were demoted possibly due to influences from Zoroastrianism.²⁸

What are children of the world learning from all of this?

Sadism, bullying and murder work just fine and law means nothing.

Until the situations in the Middle East (Palestine, Yemen, Lebanon, Syria), Africa (i.e. Sudan, DRC, Libya, and elsewhere), Latin America (for example Venezuela) are cleaned up, the world will continue its death-spiral into anarchy.

Instead, the leadership of nations around the world are lining up to kowtow to President Trump in hope of avoiding tariffs, except for China (Russia and Iran, of course).

Dear Mr. President Trump:

Didn't your preacher mention coveting your neighbor's petroleum is a major sin and violation of a Commandment from God?

A lot of your voters are God fearing men and women you know.

Unbelievable. Wasn't the US support for Saddam in Iraq's war against Iran enough? A million dead on both sides and the infrastructures of both nations sent back to the Stone Ages? I mean, you gotta be able to figure out there's some kind of Natural Law out there somewhere... right?

If anyone needs disciplining now it's that son-in-law of yours and his wacko Zionist pals. Half of your constituency doesn't like them at all you know. Try that, and the Iranians will become like kittens.

You'd become the most popular guy on the planet overnight!

Don't and, well, things will get worse. Israel might well be obliterated.

Send 'em back to pre-1967 and things will smooth out quickly. Besides, you gotta know Israel is practically empty now anyways. Sure. I travel, I know... it's been a massive diaspora for a couple of years now. They believe it's the end of days too.

OK, climb down off the soapbox for a moment, and let's see what's up with bone-crusher Lindsey Graham.

US threatens 'bone-crushing' sanctions on Russia including 500% oil tariff plan if Putin shuns Ukraine peace talks, By Kumail Jaffer, May 1, 2025

The White House could soon impose 'bone-crushing' sanctions on Russia and punitive tariffs on countries that buy their oil and gas if Moscow fail to seriously engage in peace talks with Ukraine.

Senator Lindsey Graham, a key ally of President Donald Trump, has claimed he has enough support for his bill that aims to force Vladimir Putin into talks with Kyiv.

The proposal - announced on the same day that Ukraine and the US signed a minerals deal - would see a 500 per cent tariff on imports from countries that buy Russian oil, petroleum products, natural gas or uranium if Putin fails to come to the negotiating table.

<https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-14668397/US-threatens-bone-crushing-sanctions-Russia-including-500-oil-tariff-plan-Putin-shuns-Ukraine-peace-talks.html>

OK, back up on the soapbox.

I'm sorry to have to say this to you Mr. President, but you've never been in a situation like this before.

President Putin won the war. It's that simple. Accept it.

The answer is simple. Mr. Zelenski did his job. OK. The USA can make or break (almost) anyone. In any case, it's time to retire him (with honors) or arrest him for graft, whatever, and replace him with a realist.

That guy is irritating. He was a funny guy maybe a long time ago, but his charm has worn off. Give him a face-lift and a pizza joint in Florida. I've known other ex-agency guys who were happy with that. Maybe a blond with big bazookas to answer phones? Eh? Keep him busy and out of trouble. Drugs help of course.

Crimea is not negotiable. President Putin wants Donetsk, Kherson, Luhansk and Zaporizhzhia oblasts absorbed into Russia.

Give him three of that final list of four and all the bad goes away.

Give the people of the loser region three months to move, and let President Putin pay the moving costs. (We don't want another partition debacle like the separation of Pakistan from India.)

As for taking all of Ukraine's natural resources to pay for the war the US forced upon them, that ain't right. I had Ukrainian friends too. Give em a break! You and Biden killed off and scared away most of their men. OK! UKRAINE and the USA were and remain corrupt beyond belief. Nobody's learned nothing. OK, OK. But Zelensky has to retire, and you've gotta give Ukraine something and President Putin almost everything he wants because remember: He won that awful, evil, stupid, wasteful war the US and NATO forced on them.

Be a hero!

Give and take, but don't take too much. You wanna be loved, right? Be generous for a change. That's what GREAT men do!

Being generous for a change will make you admired. Children will learn something good for a change. How about that?!?!!!

Right now you're giving everyone on the planet nightmares, including AMERICAN kids! Thermonuclear bombs for breakfast kids! Let's watch daddy and mommy be annihilated! So cool, right?

Not.

OK, down off the Soapbox.

It is astonishing that Presidents Biden and Trump appear so determined to increasingly isolate the USA economically. Historically that has been disastrous for nations and individuals.

The Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act of 1930 increased import tariffs by about 20%, kicking off a global trade war that contributed to the Great Depression's ill effects.

<https://www.investopedia.com/terms/s/smoot-hawley-tariff-act.asp>

As the old saying goes: "United We stand, divided..." well, what kind of nut really wants to go there?

On the Soapbox again?

Claim a victory and close the tariff war down.

Then, abolish all sanctions so the poor starving people have some money to buy American stuff!

Drop 'em all: <https://ofac.treasury.gov/sanctions-programs-and-country-information>

Wave the flag!

President Trump! The Great Liberator!

Off the Soapbox.

One more time? No! Yes? OK.

Lastly Mr. President, obviously you can't go after H.C. She's an American icon. However, you desperately need to get best-buddy's accountants to go after the Clinton Foundation. They've been financing terrorists for decades and are actively harassing everyone who knows "more than they should" about their operations. That at least should take some of the wind out of her sails.

Q: What should someone do, when everyone wants to kill that person?

A: Write another book about the Clintons!

Follow the money, Sir.

War Itself is Human Sacrifice

This all raises the question of whether or not war itself is considered a sacrificial rite by the elite, who, along with their families, frequently escape such deadly rituals. The ranks of the "old money" elite are composed of robber-barons and third-party weapons manufacturers who both finance and reap the benefits of war. This "business," in fact, is how they became elite in the first place, with the first tribal chieftain invading another's territories, killing the inhabitants, and stealing their land.

When one studies all the world's entanglements, it becomes obvious that human beings must stop allowing themselves to be programmed with racist and sexist ideologies - and religions are numero uno offenders in that regard: Anti-woman and anti-everyone else who is not "like us." These "unbelievers" and "infidels," in fact, are to be condescendingly pitied, hated and/or killed. Those who believe "our way" are superior to those who do not, according to the pathology.

American "Christian" Zionism

Given the wildly, glaringly illegal genocidal actions of Israeli Zionism, it is disappointing at best, and shocking in any case that American so-called Christians are somehow hypnotized into supporting Zionism. There are less than 10 million Israelis ²⁹ (9,493,977 as of Tuesday, April 29, 2025) and somehow there are 30 million "Christian Zionists" in the US alone.³⁰ Given the history of Israel post WWII, that phrase "Christian Zionism" sounds like an oxymoron.

Christians are supposed to believe in turning the other cheek, and:

³⁰ The CIA's Department of Religious Engineering should be given a medal for that, and then prosecuted in the Hague.

Factsheet: Christian Zionism, February 21, 2022

By researchers at Inform

Zionism is the belief that the Jewish people have a right to return to Israel. Christian Zionism, a millenarian movement within many Christian denominations, often from a Protestant evangelical perspective, follows the belief in the Jewish right of return, based upon the Old Testament covenant made by God with Abraham

Background

Christian Zionism is broadly understood as the belief that the Jewish people have a right to return to Israel. It sees Jews as the descendants of biblical Israelites and heirs to the covenant between God and Abraham.

The fulfilment of this biblical promise is viewed by Christian Zionists as being the prerequisite for Christ’s return to earth. It is a millennial movement that draws adherents from different Christian denominations, but in particular socially conservative evangelicals.

The most commonly quoted Bible verse relating to this covenant is Genesis 12:3, when God tells Abraham: “I will bless those who bless you and I will curse those who curse you and in you all the families of the earth will be blessed.”

The term “Christian Zionist” was first used by Theodor Herzl at the First Zionist Congress in 1897.

Who are Christian Zionists?

The biggest number of Christian Zionists is in the United States — more than 30 million, according to the author and academic Tristan Sturm. The majority belong to “Bible Belt” evangelical churches in the southeast and south central United States.

Christian Zionism is a belief system without a formal structure. However, there exist high-profile leaders and established bodies that seek to represent the views, aims and objectives of Christian Zionists. These include:

- The International Christian Embassy Jerusalem (ICEJ)
- Christians United for Israel (CUFI)
- International Fellowship of Christians and Jews (they are not, strictly speaking, Christian Zionist but rather a Jewish organisation that seeks evangelical Christian support, including financial, for the state of Israel)
- John Hagee, chairman of CUFI and senior pastor of Cornerstone Church, Texas
- Jerry Falwell (1933-2007), founder of the Moral Majority
- Tim LaHaye (1926-2016), co-author of the Left Behind fiction series, and founder of the Pre-Trib Research Center (PTRC)
- Pat Robertson, chairman of the Christian Broadcasting Network (CBN)

BELIEFS

What are the Christian Zionists' beliefs?

How do Christian Zionists' practices differ?

While the majority of practices fall within the evangelical Protestant tradition, some Christian Zionists consider themselves "proto-Jews on earth", Sturm writes, and engage in such practices as observance of the Saturday sabbath.

Christian Zionist congregations have partnered with Israeli settler communities for which they raise funds to improve the healthcare and education of residents. Congregations and groups organise guided tours to the Holy Land.

Controversies

The conversion of Jews to Christianity is considered by many Christian Zionists to be a vital element in the beginning of the "End Times." (Article continues...)

So what we have here is 30 million love-filled Christians supporting a war on babies, children, medica and journalists?

Is that right?

Crazy.

Self-fulfilling prophecies

To clarify this situation, what we have here are the leaders of a collection of different very large religious denominations with at least 30 million American Zionist Christians and 15 million Jewish or secular Zionists, that are apparently driving humanity towards the “End of Days” Armageddon, in a thermonuclear armed world.

Is that correct?

Suicidal ideation, marked by thoughts of self-harm or ending one's life, is a significant mental health issue with the potential for grave outcomes if not appropriately addressed. This phenomenon affects a broad spectrum of individuals and is frequently linked to mental health disorders, although ideation can also emerge due to situational stressors. Recognizing suicidal ideation early and identifying the underlying causes are crucial steps in enhancing a patient's quality of life and reducing the likelihood of suicide. Given the global rise in suicide rates, a thorough understanding and effective management of suicidal ideation are imperative.

That kind of “milking the naïve” may be profitable to those seeking bigger donations on Sunday, and quarterly earnings from weapons and military related industries, but the downstream effects of promoting those kinds of beliefs are closer to psychopathic.³¹ See: <https://www.reviewofreligions.org/12445/end-times-armageddon-the-return-of-the-messiah>.

Pandering to the poorly educated does not sound like a contagious form of mental illness but rather religious engineering not unlike that alleged to have been done by Emperor Constantine in the year 325.³² (This is not in any way designed to diminish the many great things millions of Catholics have done in history (including my mom). However, actions by the leadership of the Catholic Church from time to time have had devastating consequences for Catholics and non-Catholics alike. Remember Crusades, Inquisitions, and the War of Religions?)

In a book titled: "Hitler: Diagnosis of a Destructive Prophet" author Fritz Redlich concludes Hitler displayed a "highly combustible mixture of denial, projection, sexual repression, paranoid delusion, and narcissistic rage that transformed Hitler from an aimless, friendless, and vaguely resentful youth into the most destructive force of the twentieth century."

<https://www.amazon.com/Hitler-Diagnosis-Destructive-Fritz-Redlich/dp/0195057821>

According to that book, Hitler's amphetamine addition also played a significant role in his pathological matrix.

In this author's book titled: White "Christian" Terrorism Vol. 2 – Age of the Caligulas, Hitler is revealed to have been the patsy of the American Dulles brothers in their quest to propel the USA to the position of the world's sole super-power; a goal they did attain (at extraordinary cost to practically everyone else in the world) and for which they were well rewarded. John Foster Dulles was awarded the plum position of Secretary of State, and Allen Dulles went on to become the Director of CIA and founder of the MK-ULTRA

Tavistock Institute

Tavistock's imperial brainwashing project by L. Wolfe

Various types of belief can be implanted in many people, after brain function has been sufficiently disturbed by accidentally or deliberately induced fear, anger or excitement. Of the results caused by such disturbances, the most common one is temporarily impaired judgment and heightened suggestibility. Its various group manifestations are sometimes classed under the heading of "herd instinct," and appear most spectacularly in wartime, during severe epidemics, and in all similar periods of common danger, which increase anxiety and so individual and mass suggestibility.

British Psychiatry: From Eugenics to Assassination

by Anton Chaitkin

A behavior control research project was begun in the 1950s, coordinated by the British psychological warfare unit called the Tavistock Institute, with the Scottish Rite Masons, the Central Intelligence Agency, and other British, U.S., Canadian, and United Nations agencies. The project became famous in the 1970s under a CIA code name, "MK-Ultra." Its notoriety for brainwashing by drugs, hypnosis, electroshock, and other tortures caused many books to be written about the project, and the U.S. Senate conducted hearings which exposed many of its abusive features. President Gerald Ford appointed a commission headed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller, to correct the CIA's misconduct.

Slavery and the CIA's Never-Ending MK-ULTRA Project

By Greg Brundage, 2022.09.12

ABSTRACT

Given the vast array of current CIA, DoD, DARPA, university, hospital, foundation and private institute research projects that had their roots in the CIA's MK-ULTRA program, the vast array of US government censorship mechanisms, the vast array of human trafficking networks around the world, the seemingly unlimited budgets of the crime-infested CIA and DoD, the vast arrays of testimonies by MK-ULTRA and derivative program victims and survivors, ranging from the first generation in the 50s and 60s to Epstein related survivors, and survivors of CIA black sites, ongoing CIA torture programs, illegal data collection and secrecy by the CIA and the Senate, and extensive corruption in the judiciary, one can only wonder if the outrageous, unconscionable and wildly illegal MK-ULTRA ever ended or ever will end. Whereas some might assert that Nazi research should have gone to the grave with the monsters that originated that research, credible and referenced evidence presented in this article strongly suggests MK-ULTRA has not ended but continues albeit under different names, and better concealed funding sources...

Collapse of the Empire of Torture and Mind Control

By Gregory Brundage, 2024.05.10

Reviewed in this article are a multitude of US government documents proving CIA, US military and police teaching torture, and (downstream MK-ULTRA research) mind-control (“brain washing”) techniques to the police in more than half of nations in the world going back to the 1950s, without accountability as to who they were teaching. To quote a US Government Accounting Office document: “In fiscal 1990, five U.S. cabinet level departments trained and assisted police from 125 countries at a cost of approximately $117 million. In 46 countries two or more U.S. programs are operating...” “First, training was provided to so-called friendly anti-Communist regimes, without regard to whether they were dictatorships or not. And, finally, human rights were rarely a factor in policy considerations at the time.” US CIA, Army, and police trained the world’s worst and most oppressive governments in torture and mind control. This was all primarily directed as part of an “anti-Communist” agenda; however those methods could be applied by any dictator, president, or prime minister in any country in any way they wanted. This paper briefly reviews the American government’s long history with torture, and its ever-widening application of a wide range of overt and more subtle techniques to instill terror in target individuals and groups...

A Good Man Is Hard to Find — My Search for Ronald H. Tammen, Jr.

(The following is a quote from this article.)

BLUEBIRD, the first of the mind control programs, was authorized on April 20, 1950. According to the report of the Senate Select Committee on MKULTRA, dated August 3, 1977: “Its objectives were: (a) discovering means of conditioning personnel to prevent unauthorized extraction of information from them by known means, (b) investigating the possibility of control of an individual by application of special interrogation techniques, (c) memory enhancement, and (d) establishing defensive means for preventing hostile control of Agency personnel.” A fifth goal was then added:

“the evaluation of offensive uses of unconventional interrogation techniques, including hypnosis and drugs.”

Mind Control: History and Applications (Prof. Eric T. Karlstrom) June 28, 2022

By Professor Emeritus Eric Karlstrom

On April 20, 1950 Project BLUEBIRD was created. Sparking what would become various unethical research experiments conducted in the name of national security. 2 BLUEBIRD’s primary objectives were, “discovering means of conditioning personnel to prevent unauthorized extraction of information from them...; investigating the possibility of control of an individual by application of special interrogation techniques; memory enhancement, and establishing defensive means for preventing hostile control of Agency personnel.”³ These objectives would continue throughout the MKULTRA program.

Some documents of this MKULTRA precursor explain the desire to create Manchurian Candidates, which are individuals that could be used to act in a certain way against their will, for CIA use. This could be done in a variety of ways; however, hypnosis was the most enticing. The Agency also sought ways in which spies could be detected, have their memories erased and replaced with false memories. Psychologist, G. H. Estabrooks of Colgate College in New York published works and spoke of ways in which hypnosis could create Manchurian Candidates, by the means of creating an artificial and reversible multiple personality disorder. While the U.S. desired to create these types of agents there was also a push to develop ways in which undercover agents from enemy territory could be discovered.⁴

At the closing of World War II, the United States had seen firsthand what humanity was capable of, particularly the mark Nazi leaders and scientists left when the horrors of concentration camps came into the public sphere. Some of the first offensive experiments happened in Japan during the Korean War, where under the cover of conducting polygraph work, agents tested a potential truth serum of the depressant sodium amytal with the stimulant Benzedrine. The initial tests were considered a success and the CIA kept limited documentation, a trend that would continue well into the 1960's. In 1950, the former State Department member, Morse Allen, became the head of Project BLUEBIRD which was renamed Project ARTICHOKE on August 20, 1951, shifting experimental responsibility from the CIA's Office of Scientific Intelligence (OSI) to the Inspection and Security Office (ISO).

This change symbolizes a shift from tactics used primarily for defensive means to the search for more offensive measures.⁵

PART 3 Today's perversion of psychology in pursuit of white supremacist hegemony

The broken-record principle and litany effect

These are “evergreen” methods of mind-control with roots probably as old as the most ancient civilizations given those leaders had an existential need to command obedience of unwilling masses to go out and die in wars to 1st expand, and then 2nd) defend those civilizations (even though the questionably willing warriors were mostly slaves and hijacked famers anyways).

To quote one of this writer's favorite alt-news writers, Tarik Cyril Amar (a historian from Germany working at Koc University in Istanbul):

“Like people almost everywhere in NATO-EU Europe, Germans are currently being subjected to a relentless barrage of shameless, often astonishingly crude propaganda. That's because their political elites and mainstream media are desperately trying to prepare them for war against Russia. And this time, not by proxy, that is, by way of a devastated Ukraine and dead Ukrainians, but directly.

“As a former, very evil but in his prime all-too-popular German master of mass manipulation – who also happened to love war with Russia more than was good for him (or Germany) – explained a century ago, effective propaganda keeps the world very, very simple. Or, to add a little detail, propaganda's sometimes literally stunning success is built on two primitive yet powerful – and very old – tricks: the broken-record principle and the litany effect.

“Their meaning, too, is elementary: In essence, if your image of reality is delusional, you don't have sound arguments, and your case is absurd, do not despair. Instead, ceaselessly drum in a few very basic and bogus ideas until the audience is dizzy with repetition (the broken-record principle), while also eliciting frequent consent from it (the litany effect). In short: Keep shouting the same nonsense at them and make them bleat back “yes” regularly. You know, like a ritual, really.

“In the case of the manufacturing of the current iteration of traditional German the-Russians-are-coming hysteria as well, it is easy to identify its handful of specious, daft, and childishly simplistic key motifs: Russia and Russia alone is to blame for the war in Ukraine; Russia intends to attack Europe (if not the world) – and soon; and Russia is incredibly devious and scheming, so you cannot find a reasonable compromise with it.”

<https://www.r t.com/news/615896-germany-russia-nazi-propaganda> and:

<https://www.tarikcyrilamar.com/p/winning-hearts-and-numbing-minds> (Italics added by this author.)

A similar litany of outright lies is directed at China: China is responsible for American economic woes, China is to blame for global warming and freakish weather patterns, and COMMUNIST Chinese want to take over the world and eat all of our American pie!

- Never mind that by 1979 four Japanese motorcycle companies garnered 90% of the US motorcycle market and only Harley Davidson (with US government support) managed to survive. And, believe it or not, Japan was and is not even Communist. They did however use advanced robotic technologies to manufacture goods more efficiently and cheaply than Americans. In other words, American companies did not invest in the newest technologies to remain competitive. Ditto for American manufacturing today.
- The US so-called “Department of Defense” has a similar litany of lies aimed at China.

With over 500 overseas military bases, the US so-called “Department of Defense” is the largest greenhouse gas emitter in the world.

The American military is the biggest user of fossil fuels and energy in the U.S. government – about 51 million metric tons each of the last two years – more than most countries in the world.

<https://rachelcarsoncouncil.org/book-review-pentagon-climate-change-war-charting-rise-fall-u-s-military-emissions/>

China on the other hand is leading the world into greener renewables.

China has worked with more than 100 countries and regions on green energy projects, while its new energy industry has added to the global energy supply, eased global inflation pressures, and contributed to the global effort to combat climate change and transition to green development.

<https://www.chinadailyhk.com/hk/article/591755>

Also see: <https://www.chinadailyhk.com/hk/article/590787#China-leading-light-in-clean-energy-efforts-2024-08-16>

In other words, China is providing clean energy solutions to the world, while the world's most polluting industry, the US so-called "Department of Defense," is preparing to go to war against China. And, one must wonder, what will be the ecological effects of a thermonuclear war?

Only a litany of lies, fragmented histories, and wild distortions, can "justify" the US leadership's demonization of China as a malign force in the effort to restore a healthier ecology worldwide. In the looking-glass world of American "strategic disinformation," down becomes up, and good becomes evil.

"China was the key driver of the global decline in production cost for photovoltaics and wind turbines in 2022, with other markets experiencing a much more heterogeneous set of outcomes that saw costs increase, according to the report on Renewable Power Generation Costs in 2022, issued by the International Renewable Energy Agency.

"From the perspective of sustainable development goals, global renewables production capacity still falls far short of market demand. In this context, China deserves recognition rather than criticism. The advancement of China's new-energy sectors has accelerated the global response to climate change, making it more efficient and less costly.

"The issue of production capacity is a problem that arises amid the operation of the market. "Decoupling" and protectionist policies are not beneficial for resolving the issue. The US directly subsidizes domestic manufacturers through legislation such as the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA), while discriminating against foreign manufacturers."

<https://www.globaltimes.cn/page/202409/1319789.shtml>

Most Americans know some or most of this of course, but are held hostage out of fear they can and will lose their jobs, homes, and families if they are so foolish as to challenge the Deep State. So, they obediently recite the litany of lies, take more drugs and watch movies wherein futuristic technologies (mostly from China these days) and magic solve all the problems in the world.

Cognitive dissonance and learned helplessness combined have resulted in American apathy in confronting its own leaderships' bizarre rush to social and economic suicide.

To quote: "...stress-related misuse of alcohol or drugs is impulsive and may reflect conflict, learned helplessness, or an attempt to reduce cognitive dissonance."

This is all highly predictable for anyone familiar with the decline and fall of civilizations past.

Latest American advances in Mind Control research and applications

Trump Killed Public War Research. Stargate Will Make It Secret—and Far More Dangerous, by Kit Klarenberg, March 26th, 2025

...It seems hardly coincidental that right around the time Iowa University's Minerva Initiative grant was greenlit, the Pentagon began conducting wide-ranging "clandestine psychological operations" on social media, targeting the Arab and Muslim world. These efforts were highly sophisticated, employing expansive armies of bots and trolls with realistic AI-generated profile photos and accompanying 'characters.' In Iran, for instance, Pentagon sock puppets deployed varying narrative approaches to engender engagement and influence perceptions locally. Certain accounts accrued thousands of real-life followers.

Some Pentagon-run Iranian bots took hardline positions, accusing the government of being too soft on foreign policy and too liberal at home. Others posed as women opposed to compulsory hijab-wearing and promoted anti-government protests. These accounts dabbled in non-political content, including Iranian poetry and photos of Iranian food and memes, to boost their authenticity.

They also regularly engaged with Iranian users in Farsi, joking and making cultural references.

It is an obvious question whether Iowa University's Minerva efforts were ultimately concerned with assisting the Pentagon to identify ideal means of encouraging "extremist ideologies" and "radicalization" among individuals and groups in target countries to the detriment of their own governments. The researchers needn't have been conscious confederates in this scheme. Under the CIA's notorious MKULTRA program, unwitting academics routinely carried out seemingly innocuous research that would covertly be put to "psychological warfare purposes" – markedly, often "on cultures and countries of interest to the CIA."

Reinforcing this interpretation, the online Pentagon operation, unceremoniously busted very publicly in August 2022, had all the makings of a classic "cognitive" counterinsurgency effort to win hearts and minds in target countries – precisely Minerva Initiative's preponderant beat. For decades, U.S. officials have openly spoken of war with Tehran as an inevitability and engaged in full-spectrum meddling efforts to foment insurrectionary upheaval locally. Notably, in October 2020, there was an Anglo-American coup in Kyrgyzstan, another country in the bot and troll operation's crosshairs.

The U.S. national security state's obsessive interest in AI – specifically in counterinsurgency – has been clear for many years. In 2019, the Marine Corps School of Advanced Warfighting published an academic paper on "Artificial Intelligence enhanced systems to augment High Value Target (HVT) location" when conducting such operations. Israel's deployment of artificial intelligence during the Gaza genocide gruesomely demonstrates the technology's mass-killing potential, which experts believe marks the beginning of a new phase of warfare entirely.

EU funding Israeli research on mind control

Israel and EU seek to boost trade amid war of extermination

David Cronin Rights and Accountability April 29, 2025

...Last month Israel announced that it had received approximately $1.25 billion in EU funding for scientific research from 2020 to 2024.

The total would be even higher if you include grants which the Brussels bureaucracy approved for Tel Aviv University and Hebrew University of Jerusalem earlier this year. The projects involved focus on such matters as weight loss, immunity and the development of psychiatric drugs.

The obscene irony of subsidizing medical innovation in Israel as that state starves and traumatizes Gaza is either lost on Kaja Kallas or else she and her colleagues do not care. They appear committed to remaining “very good partners” with Israel regardless of how much pain it inflicts on Palestinians.

<https://electronicintifada.net/blogs/david-cronin/israel-and-eu-seek-boost-trade-amid-war-extermination>

[Kaja Kallas is the Estonian High Representative for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy and Vice-President of the European Commission. She was appointed, not elected. Kallas was also a major player in escalating EU participation in the proxy war against Russia and was, and remains a psychopathic liar: “... NATO’s aim is to avoid wars, and not to provoke [conflict].”³⁴ She is also a queen of disinformation, censorship and product of multi-generational hatred of Russia with equal hostility towards China.³⁵ If the EU was looking for a goose-stepping, war mongering, power hungry political opportunist with the intention of igniting WWIII, they couldn’t have found a more attractive appointment than Kaja Kallas. Her trashing of then-German Chancellor Angela Merkel in pursuit of (the EU’s proxy) war against Russia was a clear indicator of where she was and still is going: escalation to WWIII.]

The linked “Psychiatric” research referred to in the above Electronic Intifada.com (EI) quote is also extremely disturbing. The title of the linked article is, as should be expected, deceptive; a palliative to soothe any qualms of conscience that might slip through the precisely guided narrative underpinning an extreme form of torture of Palestinians who,

Anxiety and depression were the factors the above research study isolates, ostensibly to relieve those symptoms in caged groups of laboratory mice however any objective research must acknowledge the potential to misuse that research to enhance anxiety and depression in a population of Palestinians caged within the confines of the world's largest prison, Palestine, and/or within Israel's smaller prisons and torture centers.

In other words, Hitler's "medical" research," (think Josef Mengele) and Bluebird/MK-ULTRA (think CIA chemist Sidney Gottlieb) continue, funded by the EU and Israel (which is only kept afloat with uncounted billions of US taxpayer dollars).

Mind control, brainwashing? Absolutely. Human rights have all been subjugated to the Euro-American suicidal quest for global hegemony in perpetuity.

The probability of avoiding WWII? No comment, except to report the mass and momentum of the Euro-American Military Industrial Medical Media Academic Complex (MIMMAC) is a self-defeating suicidal quest. Like the majority of previous empires, it will crumble from within due to a corrupt foundation and the combined weights of debt and neurological impairment from drugs.

The psychopathology and historical absurdity of Christian Zionism

War on Babies

Pregnant women are on their own, 10 November 2023

In this genocidal war, Israel has killed over 4,500 children, which comprises more than 40 percent of the entire death toll.

The number of children killed in Gaza by Israel in a single month has "surpassed the annual number of children killed across the world's conflict zones since 2019," according to Save the Children.

But this killing did not start in October 2023. It has a long history.

In April 1948, before the state of Israel had even been established, Zionist militias committed a massacre in the Palestinian village of Deir Yassin, killing women and children.

The massacres have continued in Gaza to this day, with children making up unconscionable proportions of those killed by Israel.

From 7 to 26 October, the Palestinian health ministry in Gaza reported that Israel had killed at least 132 babies who had not yet reached the age of 1.

<https://electronic.intifada.net/content/i-have-nothing-baby/40361>

Photos of Palestinian babies shot twice in the head by Israeli snipers, Palestinian babies shot three times in the chest and babies frozen to death are easy to find. There is no counting the number of babies that burned to death or were crushed by and/or suffocated under bombed buildings.

Congratulations Presidents Biden and Trump and PM Netanyahu. You have normalized genocide and the mass murder of babies. Compared to this, Hitler was... only a mild psychopathic murderer.

Is this making America Great? Part of some God's Divine Plan?

That won't happen until it is too late, probably.

All The Worst Evils Are Happening Right Out in the Open, by Caitlin Johnstone, April 26, 2025

Trump is committing genocide for Israel after publicly admitting to being bought and owned by the Adelsons.

All the worst atrocities happen right out in the open. You don't need to come up with any elaborate conspiracy theories to see it. It's right there, completely unhidden.

It's not hidden, it's just spun. Disguised by the propaganda of the mass media who frame this holocaust as a war of defense in response to a terrorist attack while constantly diverting our attention to other far less significant issues.

It says so much about the power of the imperial propaganda machine that Trump could openly admit to having been fully controlled by Adelson cash on the campaign trail, get elected, and then facilitate a blatant extermination campaign in Gaza while aggressively stomping out free speech that is critical of Israel throughout the United States — and somehow not have this be the main thing that everyone talks about all the time. It is only because our minds are being forcefully manipulated by the powerful at mass scale that this has been the case.

The mass-scale psychological manipulation is so pervasive and ubiquitous that only a small minority are reacting to history's first live-streamed genocide with an appropriate level of horror. If Americans could see what their government is doing in their name with fresh eyes and uncalledous hearts, the nation's capitol would be burnt to the ground within days. But because their vision is clouded by propaganda indoctrination they can't see it, so they overlook what's right in front of them while awaiting a gigantic Epstein bombshell or UFO disclosure or some other Big Reveal that never comes.

Consider the possibility that the Big Reveal has already happened. That it's been right here staring you in the face this entire time, but you haven't noticed its significance because it has been constantly normalized for you throughout your life since you were small. That the truth behind all your most sparkly conspiracy theories could be published online tomorrow, and it still wouldn't tell you as much about what your rulers are doing and how evil they are as what's already happening in plain sight...

This is the dystopia we were warned about. It's not some ominous threat looming on the horizon. It's here. We are being psychologically manipulated at mass scale into consenting to the most nightmarish atrocities imaginable. Children's bodies are being shredded to bits right in front of us. And when you turn on the TV you see famous people laughing and making jokes with fake plastic grins, babbling about vapid nonsense. This is the dystopia. It isn't on its way. It's here...

A Brief Review of American Censorship Mechanisms and Laws

Prohibiting It, by G. Brundage, 2021, June 25

Censorship is the death knell of democracy. This article reviews most of the above-surface US government and government affiliated organizations and mechanisms used to censor the news, followed by a review of Constitutional, statutory, and case law including SCOTUS decisions prohibiting censorship of the news.

This article is the most complete and succinct review of those censorship mechanisms and laws, with linked references published to date. It was written in such a way as to motivate the Supreme Court to reverse its decision in Citizens United vs. FEC, overturn subsequent decisions that have resulted in Super-PAC unlimited anonymous campaign finance “donations,” and issue a cease-and-desist order on current censorship organizations. Additional motivation is provided by a glimpse into how SCOTUS will be remembered in history if they fail to act quickly.

Killing medics and international law

How Israel hunts and executes Palestinian medics - The recent case of 15 uniformed first responders killed on their way to work is but the latest in a long, long line of similar crimes, by Eva Bartlett
Apr 9, 2025

The Israeli army has executed 15 Palestinian medics in Gaza, buried them and lied about them being “terrorists.” For those paying attention, this barbarism is not new, only the latest war crime committed by Israel in a litany of war crimes over the decades.

The combination of the medics being tied up, executed and buried in a mass grave was so horrific that even usually indifferent global media reported on it, albeit without the outrage that would have accompanied such reports were the perpetrator an enemy of the West. (Warning: disturbing video.)

On March 31, Jonathan Whittall, the Head of the UN Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs in the Occupied Palestinian Territory (OCHA) posted on X, “First responders should never be a target. Yet today @UNOCHA supported @PalestineRCS and Civil Defense to retrieve colleagues from a mass grave in #Rafah #Gaza that was marked with the emergency light from one of their crushed ambulances.”

His thread went on to detail how a week prior, on March 23, contact was lost with ten Palestine Red Crescent Society (PRCS) and six Civil Defense first responders, in five ambulances and one fire truck, who’d been dispatched to collect injured people, noting, “For days, OCHA coordinated to reach the site but our access was only granted 5 days later.”

When they finally accessed the site, they “recovered the buried bodies of 8 PRCS, 6 Civil Defense and 1 UN staff,” he wrote, noting, “They were killed in their uniforms. Driving their clearly marked vehicles. Wearing their gloves. On their way to save lives. This should never have happened.”

Palestinian Civil Defense spokesperson, Mahmoud Basal, separately said, “One of the Civil Defense crews had his feet tied, another had his clothes removed from his upper body, another was beheaded. Among all the martyrs, the least harmed had 20 bullets fired at him, in his chest.”

...According to Chapagain, 30 PRCS volunteers and staff have been killed since October 2023 alone.

OCHA called the murders “a huge blow to us” and said, “these abhorrent acts require accountability.” According to the UN, “408 aid workers including more than 280 UNRWA staff have been killed in Gaza since the war began on 7 October 2023.”

Tom Fletcher, the UN under-secretary-general for humanitarian affairs and emergency relief coordinator, wrote, “They were killed by Israeli forces while trying to save lives. We demand answers & justice.”

Trump Shares Collateral Murder-Style Snuff Film On 15th Anniversary of Collateral Murder

Even if Trump could mass murder his way into ending the Houthi blockade, that wouldn't be peace — at least not the kind of peace that normal, healthy people care about, by Caitlin Johnstone, April 6, 2025

President Trump has posted a video on social media showing a US airstrike in Yemen killing dozens of people who he claims are “Houthis gathered for instructions on an attack.” Trump also bizarrely suggested that Ansar Allah has been sinking US ships in its Red Sea attacks, writing “They will never sink our ships again!”

There is no public information about any US ships having been sunk by Houthi attacks. As of this writing there is also no evidence supporting the president's claim that the people killed in the airstrike were combatants; there are photos online of unarmed Yemeni tribesmen standing in the exact formation seen in the video Trump posted for normal civilian gatherings.

Starving to death, suffocating in a bombed building, amputations without anesthetic and other routine sufferings of the Palestinian people are torture – torture of innocents, perpetuated, funded, and organized by the leadership of Hamas, the USA, the EU and Gulf States that have done nothing whatsoever to stop that torture and slaughter.

Normalizing Genocide and threatening Justices of the ICC and ICJ

And so, we find the open embrace of the genocide in Palestine.

American foreign policy makers have gone so far as to threaten members of the International Criminal Court and International Court of Justice, and their families in the attempt to stop them from prosecuting American officials for genocide and other war crimes.

Former ICC Prosecutor Fatou Bensouda opened a preliminary investigation into Israel's actions in Palestine in 2015, a year after Israel launched an offensive in Gaza that killed 2,251 Palestinians in less than two months. Bensouda aimed to make an initial assessment of allegations of possible war crimes in Gaza, the West Bank, and East Jerusalem...

The investigation found that Cohen—who retired in 2021—repeatedly called Bensouda and sought meetings with her after the "ambush," eventually prompting Bensouda to alert senior ICC officials about the Mossad chief's conduct after his tactics shifted to "threats and manipulation." One ICC official compared Cohen's behavior to "stalking."

(Mossad Chief) Cohen initiated at least three meetings with (former ICC Prosecutor) Bensouda between 2019-21, including one where he allegedly told the prosecutor: "You should help us and let us take care of you. You don't want to be getting into things that could compromise your security or that of your family."

So-called "brainwashing" methods were developed as part of MK-ULTRA research within the subset of interrogation methods. The perceived need for interrogations derived from the horrific specter of communism as some great evil upon the earth. Nothing any communist has ever done can compare to the infinite violence the western capitalist nations have unleashed upon the earth, up to and including today. Making the world even poorer and more fragmented will not benefit anyone. Drug and mental health tests are necessary for any and all to whom great power is entrusted.

THE REPORT

1. Analyses the further and rapid deterioration of the human rights situation in the occupied West Bank, including East Jerusalem between 7 October and 20 November 2023.
2. Highlights that Palestinians live in constant terror of discriminatory use of Israeli State force and settler violence.
3. Warns that the situation may further deteriorate if Israel does not adopt urgent measures to comply with International Human Rights Law (IHRL) & International Humanitarian Law (IHL).

HUMAN RIGHTS VIOLATIONS DOCUMENTED BY OHCHR

- A. Increase in the use of unnecessary or disproportionate force by Israeli security forces (ISF) resulting in unlawful killings.
- B. Mass arbitrary arrests, detentions and reported torture and other ill-treatment by ISF, raising concerns of collective punishment.
- C. Exponential increase in attacks by armed settlers leading to mass

MASS ARBITRARY ARRESTS, DETENTIONS AND ILL-TREATMENT RAISING CONCERNS OF COLLECTIVE PUNISHMENT

- From 7 Oct to 27 Dec, ISF carried out daily mass arrests and arrested around 4,785 Palestinians, in most cases not linked to the commission of a criminal offence.
- Arrests were regularly accompanied by physical and psychological abuse and humiliation of detainees by ISF, including sexual and gender-based violence against men and women.
- In East Jerusalem, a dedicated unit of the Israeli police closely monitored social media activity of Palestinians and carried out arrests following publication of social media posts.
- Israeli authorities dramatically worsened conditions and treatment for Palestinians detained by Israel on "security" charges, including through beatings, isolating them from the outside world, and denying medical care. Six Palestinians died while in Israeli detention.

Israelis raping prisoners? Normalized. Not even newsworthy in the west.

Holding hostages

No comment. This strategy works very well, but few, including myself, will discuss it.

Netanyahu and Zelensky are hardly the only dictators the US so-called Department of Defense has in its pockets around the world.

All of course are celebrated as heroes in western mainstream media (MSM).

Full-Spectrum Dominance

The Pursuit of Full Spectrum Dominance: The Archives of the NSA, by Johan Lau Munkholm, University of Copenhagen, Denmark

Conclusion

"The declared aim of the US military to achieve full spectrum dominance is surely an ambitious undertaking that will likely never be accomplished. It stresses the need for a well-organized and vigilant surveillance system that directly translates observations of threatening behaviour to an appropriate and pre-emptive response that exorcises unwanted emergencies. The efforts to achieve full spectrum dominance, which stretches its reach into the future, are to an increasing extent coordinated by the data archive that seeks to capture and direct the entire flow of global data into the NSA's data centers to build a complete representation of the real. The NSA's surveillance program enlists the centripetal force of the archive in organizing a vast security apparatus, enhancing the governmental capabilities of perceptual awareness. From awareness to pre-emptive intervention, more power will be delegated to computational tools that process the library of the real to envision future threats and automatically mobilize lethal technological measures to pre-empt the specters of a contingent future. Here, it is the algorithm which deems certain patterns so deviant from a fluctuating norm that appropriate and potentially violent measures must be inserted whether soft or hard...

"The indiscriminate collection practices reflected in the US federal archival project coordinated by the NSA thus enable algorithmic governance that bases decisions on the associative potential of the data double stored in proprietary data repositories—an archive inaccessible to public scrutiny. In stressing the importance of the fantasies that surround the archive, this article has indicated the inherent logic of governance working to manage any and all unpredictable emergences of the future. Attaining this capability may be a pipe dream based in a brash confidence in a new epistemological shift and big data. Nonetheless, the veneer of objectivity and technological efficiency may work to both undermine human supervision and amplify existing biases on account of imminent danger."

Conclusions

And so, psychology and the other social sciences have been "turned on their heads" by those with malign intent.

Decades ago it was reported Eskimos have 32 words for snow. That number has apparently increased. Finnish people are reported to have 50 words for snow.

Thesaurus.com claims there are 835 synonyms for crazy (as in mentally “strange”) but those appear to not include classifications by the APA’s Diagnostic and Statistical Manual.

The United States was founded upon the genocide of the Native Americans. Some, but not all nations are founded upon genocides. Those genocides had to be concealed from the kids, and justified/rationalized to help the killers sleep better.

It is entirely possible, or even probable what the world is dealing with now in the American leadership is a multigenerational mental illness of immense proportions.

Multi-generational mental illness

Take the Clintons for example:

During American Revolution, General George Washington ordered Major General John Sullivan and Brigadier General James Clinton on an expedition to subdue and break the Haudenosaunee in their own territory. In what later became known as the Sullivan Expedition of 1779, Sullivan and Clinton succeeded in destroying over forty Iroquois villages, burning seasons of food and crops, and driving refugees to Canada. Source: Glenn F. Williams, Year of the Hangman: George Washington’s Campaign Against the Iroquois (Yardley, UK: Westholme Publishing, 2005).

Labrecque, Annabel, G., "The Indian Method of Warring": Wampum, Warfare, and George Washington's Lessons in Frontier Diplomacy During the Seven Years' War, The GW Undergraduate Review, Vol. 1 CCAS '19 (The George Washington University), alabrecque@gwu.edu Accessed via: https://scholarspace.library.gwu.edu/concern/gw_works/br86b383m

And how about William Jefferson Clinton? Was he any better? Arguably not. He certainly presided over the Bosnian genocide and did not permit any interference until after the Srebrenica massacre in a supposedly UN safe area. And ordering the UN Peacekeepers to stand down during the genocide? Why? Voters might blame him for any deaths? That’s sick. They the Peacekeepers to their jobs!

Likewise the Clintons’ connections with the Mina Airport cocaine drug smuggling - operation is well-known and documented.

<https://www.scribd.com/document/442020847/White-Christian-Terrorism-Vol-2-Age-of-the-Caligulas-2nd-Ed>

As is his and especially Hillary Clinton’s association with Netanyahu, and the Tamil Terrorist group referred to as the LTTE.

Certainly Hillary Clinton's association with every genocidal maniac out there is easy to verify, e.g. President Laurent Kabila (<https://reliefweb.int/report/democratic-republic-congo/congo-rebels-accuse-kabila-fomenting-genocide>),

President Laurent Kabila and Hillary Clinton

Aung San Suu Kyi and Hillary Clinton – Remember the Rohingya genocide.

Joseph Biden and Hillary Clinton

...to name but a few.

Continuing the theme of multi-generational tyrants, we also have the imperial family of the Bushes, with George W. Bush starting the unjustifiable and massively deadly Iraq and Afghanistan wars.

And yet, the US Senate has the gall to accuse China of malign behaviors.³⁹ That psychoanalytic ego defense mechanism called “projection?”⁴⁰

Mental health checks for US Senators and EU and NATO chiefs are clearly warranted as are trials at the Hague.

And who was held to account for any of those massive atrocities?

Nobody.

Not even a slap on the wrist.

Nothing.

The silence was and remains deafening.

By manipulating academia and the international media, economic blackmail, torture, endless threats and mass murder, the leadership of the UK and USA wipe their imperial derrieres with the UN Charter. And yet, the voters still vote for them.

That is classic civilization-end-stage mind- control.

Absolute amorality and corruption have been absolutely normalized.

The US has successfully normalizing genocide and absolute impunity to international law to desensitize the global public for what they would like to do to China, when they finishing “moping up” the Middle East and end the Ukraine War.

What will actually unfold in the future is anybody’s guess, however President Trump crashing the world economy⁴¹ does not bode well for anyone except international crime organizations which the USA mostly controls anyways.⁴²

Though that may seem all well and fine in Langley and DC, there are those pesky voters that might not be too happy about all that and the consequences of trashing the American economy.

Bread and circuses only sustained the Western Roman Empire for so long.

What happens when the mob can’t afford bread, HBO and most importantly, drugs?

It appears the US/UK will sink in the mire of their corruption and debts

Hubris⁴³ always ends in unfortunate ways for those afflicted. The only questions are:

- How much of the rest of the world will they take down with them?

By spreading sexual perversions of all kinds globally with the “big help” of USAID money, (and other covert means) the US has already so corrupted the world it will take generations to recover if humanity can survive that long.

- If a new Dark Ages settles around the world, how long will it last?

⁴³ https://www.researchgate.net/publication/384695725_Hubris_Origins_Consequences_and_Lessons_from_Greek_Tragedy

The new Dark Ages began long ago in Europe and North America. What is amazing is they don't even realize it.

Milestones in the American devolution of morality include the following:

The 1975 "Rocky Horror Picture Show" was a pretty good sign of things to come.

The 1976 mega-hit song Hotel California certainly has a terrific melody and hypnotic rhythm, but it sounds so much like a house for junkies (Heroin addicts), I'm quite sure I wouldn't want to visit (again). My older brother took me to a house like that in the early 1970s. I left after about three minutes. It was creepy. I didn't like it. If you think about the words, "you can never leave," it is, really creepy. That's subliminal programming; pretty poison.

And then there was the National Lampoon's 1978 mega-hit movie Animal House. I hated that too. It was sick. I'm from the earlier 1970s generation that had a social conscience.

Many associate the late 1960s early 1970s generation with "free love" but it wasn't like that. True, there were some Heroin houses thanks to the Vietnam War and the CIA bringing tons of cocaine into the USA (i.e. via Air America). But they were not the norm and most young people were not into that scene. However it became permissible for unmarried people to live together. People actually did love each other back then; nothing like the drunken orgies of Animal House or the "zipless fk of Erica Jong.

Though I liked most of the music by the Beatles, the Grateful Dead, Crosby Stills Nash and Young, Moody Blues, Emerson Lake and Palmer, Pink Floyd, and so much more, slavery in any form, including forced sexual relations like Rocky Horror and Hotel California resulting in the trivialization of physical intimacy, turned me off. Why? I was lucky to have quite good relationships starting in the early 1970s and I read "The Hite Report" by Shere Hite. To me, if it ain't real, it ain't nothing.⁴⁴

Moral decay? 1929 on Ecstasy, crack cocaine, and designer drugs with mandated education teaching children to seriously question their own gender identify isn't going anywhere good; that much was and remains obvious.

⁴⁴ I was lucky indeed that I became a teen in a liberal period and as a confident and successful competition fighter attracted young ladies quite easily and was lucky I had good long-lasting relationships through my teen years and 20s. Most of my relationships lasted about four years, and I only "played the field" for a couple of months (between relationships) while I found another women who I could trust enough for a real relationship. As time went on and the moral fabric of society continued to deteriorate, that became more and more difficult.

What forms of government will arise to stabilize a new civilization if anyone survives in the wake of the release of all the USA's biological weapons during and following a thermonuclear war?

That is a superfluous question because it is quite possible no human will survive.

Where did I read that quote from Horace "Non omnis moriar" ("not everything dies")?

Oh yes, someone's epitaph. He always did have a sense of humor; but what did Horace know about biological weapons anyways?

Probably not too much.

Probably some bacteria will survive, and of course, cockroaches.⁴⁵ Perhaps some mutated humans will survive, but according to a study at the University of Michigan, "researchers found that 75.9% of synonymous mutations were significantly deleterious, while 1.3% were significantly beneficial..."⁴⁶ So, any good mutants will likely be wiped out by the bad mutants.

SOLUTIONS

The above outlines a great deal of horror emanating from the greed and emotional insecurities of a relatively small group of white guys in Europe and the USA (with an increasing number of pretty young ladies used as government spokespeople to sell the poison).

Why can't they grow up? By age four most children learn to play cooperatively.

The US withdrawal from the UN Human Rights Council (UNHRC), Paris Climate Accord, the Iran Nuclear Deal, the World Trade Organization, and the World Health Organization are shameless acts justified by arguments based on false premises.⁴⁷

⁴⁵ <https://www.newsweek.com/yes-bugs-can-survive-nuclear-war-which-scientists-weigh-1753939>

⁴⁶ <https://news.umich.edu/study-most-silent-genetic-mutations-are-harmful-not-neutral-a-finding-with-broad-implications/>

⁴⁷ For example <https://www.whitehouse.gov/presidential-actions/2025/01/withdrawing-the-united-states-from-the-worldhealth-organization/> which states the COVID-19 pandemic arose from Wuhan China, when in fact COVID-19 samples were found in Italy a year earlier, not long after Secretary of State Pompeo threatened Italy to not join the Belt and Road Initiative. It was however in Wuhan that COVID-19 was identified, probably because of the virology lab there. Thus, withdrawing from WHO in response to a false accusation against China, which hyped up anti-Asian hate crimes including numerous murders in the US, is Why didn't the US join the International Criminal Court? There can be only one reason: As the world's most outstanding criminal nation, they fear it like the plague.

This is one reason I like competitive sports. There are rules; and win or lose one should be gracious about it. That's sportsmanship. I certainly liked competition fighting more than the gang fights I was forced into in 1963/1964 in Cambridge England! And a lot more than getting hit in the back of the head so often with bats and every kind of ball back in the USA upon return. At least in competition fighting its only one person to contend with and I could see them.

The above are just some of the reasons I can not passively tolerate Euro-American bullying of the entire world. Having spent many years in North America, Europe and Asia, and at least having spent some time in South America and Africa, I have a wider sample of what is normal than most people. That helps me define what is "normal," and what is truly aberrational. The leadership of the USA and EU are aberrational; they are not mentally healthy.

As my parents often said: "A person can't make himself bigger by pulling others down. They only dig deeper and deeper holes for themselves."

1. Western politicians and military leaders all need regular professional mental health assessments and drug tests supervised by incorruptible professionals, if any still exist.

Most of the current generation of leaders in the west need to be retired (and many put on trial in an international court.)

2. People should be encouraged to marry at younger ages. It is this author's opinion most people have very short-sighted viewpoints on history. I've had people from the US, Europe, South Korea, Malaysia, Afghanistan, Pakistan, and China tell me it is their "traditional culture" to not get married until around age 30. How ridiculous!

And, once again China is taking a lead on reform.⁴⁸

For most of the world, throughout most of human history, the average life expectancy from birth was around 24. This figure basing an argument upon false premises and significantly harming global health at a time when emerging diseases are becoming increasingly deadly due primary to global warming, globalization, and American research on dual-use pathogens as potential biological weapons.

Also see: <https://moderndiplomacy.eu/2025/02/10/the-u-s-withdrawal-from-international-organisations-what-it-means-for-global-order> & <https://www.globaltimes.cn/page/202505/1333259.shtml>.

⁴⁸ <https://www.globaltimes.cn/page/202504/1331789.shtml>

fluctuated greatly depending on the time or region, and was higher than 24 in most individual years, but factors such as pandemics, famines, and conflicts caused regular spikes in mortality and reduced life expectancy.

<https://www.statista.com/statistics/1069683/life-expectancy-historical-areas/>

Excluding premature deaths, natural deaths were most often in people's 30s. This business about "traditional culture" is a fabrication.

It is my opinion waiting until age 30 to get married has caused generations to become seekers of mindless hedonism that will make sustaining a stable marriage highly unlikely. And, who will pay the price for that?

The children, that's who.

The family as a stable unit appears to be nearly extinct in "advanced countries."

To repeat above: Undoing the trashing of morality will take generations.

When I was a university student, I had a button that said: "Eat the rich."

It may come to that, if the Euro-American alliance does not back-off everywhere, starting today.

3. Political campaign finance reform would help enormously, as would...

4. some kind of global legal and ethics board (composed of several independent research groups) with the mandate to scrutinize the operations of private intelligence and military companies and monitor biological pathogen research.

5. A restructured UN...

6. ...needs an army, armed with effective but non-lethal weaponry.

7. The Department of so-called Defense needs to be transitioned into the Department of global rebuilding.

8. Hollywood needs to start making more comedies. US foreign policy has stolen the smiles from most of the world's people. It's time to make amends.

9. Children need to learn more accurate histories, psychology (including conflict resolution strategies as compared to just killing people as the US government and media endlessly promotes), nutrition, and exercise physiology. Only knowledge such as the forementioned can end this nightmare world Euro-American greed has created and bring about the dawn of a vastly happier, healthier world.

10. All UN documents claiming “democracy” is THE superior representative form of government need to be corrected. Socrates was right. Democracy ends in oligarchy, populism, and the basest forms of tyranny.

Author’s note 2

I am not a fan of mandated Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion training as it only serves to polarize groups of people more. Pandering to the Me, ME, ME! Generation isn’t a good idea.

Living in space is not a viable option. We are in this world together and simply must learn tolerance of different cultures and the philosophies that guide them.

Likewise, ending USAID to promote “gender identity training” around the world is a good thing. The endless American obsession with sex is a needless distraction from the real needs in the world.

Appealing to the basest of animal instincts in people (sex and aggression) is great for marketing, but will emphatically not lift the world out of the moral torpidity into which the NATO-American MIMMAC (Military Industrial Media Medical Academic Complex AKA the “blob”) has dragged the world via its’ media dominance.

And so, genocides and torture are politely ignored by all hoping to score points with the most prolific torturer and sadistic murderer in recorded history (MIMMAC).

The so-called “tariff war” launched by President Trump is a political stunt to divert attention from what the US and Israel are doing in the Middle East, specifically bombing the life out of Palestine, Yemen, and Syria (in addition to a multitude of war crimes committed in and against Lebanon) into the Stone Ages. And what is going on in Africa, Myanmar, Venezuela is equally reprehensible.

And the United States, just in its short history has cumulatively proven itself the worst of the worst war mongering countries in history⁴⁹ to such an extent I cannot rightfully call it

⁴⁹ http://eng.chinamil.com.cn/OPINIONS_209196/Opinions_209197/10115979.html

“human history” at all. And that, as I see it is the strongest evidence of contagious mental illness and drug addiction there is.

The endless litany of wasteful American distractions is only polarizing people and nations further at a time when humanity needs to come together for a change to solve problems rather than cause new ones.

Human population for example, is not a problem. Genocides, rapidly emerging diseases, and rising Gini coefficients (which measure income inequalities)⁵⁰ around the world are the problems, alongside starvation, homelessness, and an obvious dumbing down of the west (while Asians work harder than ever).

On the other hand, USAID to feed the hungry and provide medical assistance to the billions who need it is the barest minimum the USA can and should do; to at least alleviate some of the nightmares its’ political/economic system has created during the past century.

According to the June 2024 UNHCR report, (released October 9) the number of displaced people worldwide is now 122.6 million people.

<https://www.unhcr.org>

Meanwhile the Danish Refugee Council is predicting:

“...an increase of (displaced people) by 4.2 million in 2025 and an additional 2.5 million by the end of 2026 entailing a total increase of 6.7 million.

“This would bring the total number of displaced people worldwide to more than 130 million and if (this) trend continues would reach more than 140 million by 2030. The report puts specific focus on displacement hotspots: Myanmar, Sudan and Yemen, as well as a special feature on the displacement in Gaza.

<https://drc.ngo/resources/news/global-displacement-forecast-report-launch>

⁵⁰ <https://wir2022.wid.world/chapter-2>
<https://ourworldindata.org/grapher/economic-inequality-gini-index>
<https://www.investopedia.com/terms/g/gini-index.asp>

And in each of those cases (Palestine⁵¹, Myanmar⁵², Sudan⁵³, and Yemen⁵⁴) it is the hand of the CIA and NATO that is causing those “displacements,” blithely ignoring that those who manage to escape American wars alive are the lucky ones; maybe or maybe not, as the suffering only continues, indefinitely for most.

Simultaneous to those nightmares, the FRIENDS OF THE UNITED STATES are all busy checking their own “gender identities” and those of other people, to encourage those who do not follow lockstep behind strict hyper-liberal Americanism fall quickly in line, because they have ways of making anybody’s life really miserable.

This is a world-wide phenomenon brought to the world by MIMMAC via USAID and other more covert routes that are still wide, wide open.

They’ll go after your parents, wife, children, siblings, and your friends. They are abjectly inhuman. They will smear you and poison whatever environment a person lives in if the target of their “caring” doesn’t bend over to American hyper-liberal ideals.

Tolerance?

There is no space for tolerance in the asymmetric war plans of the USA and Western Europe.

Obliterating any and all forms of morality is their primary goal in the buildup to “bigger and better wars!”

Why are people burning Elon Musk’s cars and dealerships?

He was the driving force to cut the funding for USAID’s global promotion of “gender identity” training. In other words, it’s the CIA (via its private intelligence contractors⁵⁵ aided by George Soros) that are burning his empire of electric cars.

As an alternative to that corrupt reality, I highly recommend more emphasis be put on teaching objective world histories, and social sciences starting in primary schools along with chemistry and physiology to start to teach people how to take better care of themselves and others.

Right now, it is the pharmaceutical companies that benefit from corporate American super-sizing everything from calories in grease-soaked foods to more sugar, salt and crunch in everything.

Frankly I don't care or have time to deal with other people's "gender issues." It's not an interest area of mine. I've always been tolerant of other people's philosophies and religions, except when they are harmful to other people, families, communities, and nations.

"Gender issues" was promoted for such a long time by USAID (and other covert means), it has surpassed other concerns in the world (like hunger and starvation, emerging diseases, wars, and other "little things" like that) especially amongst young people. Older people tended to just ignore it as another US government insanity, which was a mistake.

Little did anyone know those "issues" (that should never have been major issues in the first place) have been intentionally weaponized as part of the Euro-American drive for global domination in perpetuity.

Simultaneous to all of that, empathy as a human trait is becoming extinct as an inverse function of the rise of (digital) science, technology, engineering & math (STEM) subjects as the primary goal of the best and the brightest. And that too has been necessitated by the engineers behind the Euro-American drive for hegemony in perpetuity. Weaponizing the world even more is not going to make anyone "great," it will only make more people dead and dead people don't buy i-Phones, or McDonalds, KFC, or anything at all.

The American pseudo philosophy: "Nice guys finish last," needs to be reversed.

Then, perhaps the world can transform itself back into a beautiful place where humans work together for the betterment of all regardless of differences in personal philosophies (like liberal vs. conservative), nationalism, religion, etc., etc.

Stay calm, and do not be distracted.

Epilogue

The Economics of a Dying Empire (w/ Richard Wolff), The Chris Hedges Report, April 10, 2025

The final stages of capitalism, Karl Marx wrote, will be marked by developments that are intimately familiar. Unable to expand and generate profits at past levels, the capitalist system will begin to consume the structures that sustain it. It will prey upon, in the name of austerity and government efficiency, the working class and the poor, driving them ever deeper into debt and poverty and diminishing the capacity of the state to serve the needs of ordinary citizens.

It will, as it has, increasingly relocate jobs, including both manufacturing and professional positions, to countries with cheap pools of laborers. Industries will mechanize their workplaces. This will trigger an economic assault on not only the working class but the middle class—the bulwark of a capitalist system—that will, at first, be disguised by the imposition of massive personal debt as incomes decline or remain stagnant...

It would in its final stages pillage the systems and structures that made capitalism possible. It would resort, as it caused widespread suffering, to harsher forms of repression. It would attempt in a frantic last stand to maintain its profits by looting and pillaging state institutions, contradicting its stated nature. The final stages of capitalism, as Marx grasped, is not capitalism at all. Corporations gobble down government expenditures, in essence taxpayer money, like pigs at a trough. Then the system crashes...

It's not too late, even for America's fearless leaders to back off entirely, and remember what life is really supposed to be about.
